Usually I hear 'La Chica' Spanish Numbers Station

Plus 'La Chica' ends with 3 'Good-Nights' in English.

Don't think I have ever recorded any Spanish Numbers

I see everyone here is following their marching orders from Judson Phillips, founder of the Tea Party Nation.

Phillips has sent out mass emails urging the Tea Party supporters to blame liberals for the attack.

"The hard left is going to try and silence the Tea Party movement by blaming us for this. Clinton used the 1995 Oklahoma City bombing to "blame conservative talk radio, especially Rush Limbaugh" and The tactic worked then, backing conservatives off and possibly helping to ensure a second Clinton term. The left is coming and will hit us hard on this. We need to push back harder with the simple truth. The shooter was a liberal lunatic. Emphasis on both words."

WRTH 2011 arrived January 8th from Deutsche Welle in Bonn. As usual chock full of uptodate frequencies and worldwide station details. Useful section "Broadcasts in English" to help you catch those interesting stations. Features on:
AOR AR5001D and Winradio Excalibur (claim Excalibur is now the TOP SDR?), Flex-1500 & Medav LR2
Very good reviews of $50 ultralights. I have two of these and they provide excellent performance for price and are great fun to use.
Various classic professional receiver reviews

Also nice article on AFN and R. St. Helena

To me WRTH is a necessity for enjoying your hobby - a lot of the problems beginners have can be resolved by getting BC stations from the WRTH.

It's full of the necessary information on what time and on what frequency you can get the best reception.

Just like Sirhan and Lee Oswald and Artie Bremer and Chapman and Jack Ruby and James Earl Ray and so on.

All "lone nuts" without visible means of support who end up in the right state of mind at the right place with the right weapons to do maximum damage to someone who threatens a corporate goal or represents an ideal that threatens the existing power structure.

It's all about operating habits. You operate almost exclusively digital modes like PSK-31, correct? If so, then you basically face contest conditions every day. Because all the digital activity tends to occur in a very small segment of each band, QRM from strong, nearby signals is way more of a concern for you than it is for someone who operates mostly voice, CW or a healthy combination of different modes. So, some specs are going to matter more for you than for someone with different interests and operating habits. This isn't to say that close in dynamic range is unimportant for anyone. It isn't. But it's definitely more important for some than for others.

Ahh, best he stays right here and argues a point that is wrong--as you have pointed out, even the supreme court got right this time.

The right to keep and bear arms was given to the people ... he wants to take it away and give it to a military arm of the government and claim that is what the one sentence in the second amendment means ...

Having lost his argument, isn't it obvious, for whatever reason(s) he has, he is either unable or unwilling to accept this ... if that isn't a definition of insanity, I don't know what is ... this guy has problems he will carry to any he can find fertile ground to fight his demons on ...

Since he has fully proved himself a hopeless nut, you might want to consider that it is time to move on ...

Yes. I detune slightly to center the one 32 Hz wide signal I'm decoding in the center of my 250 Hz crystal filter bandpass. But I did the same thing with SSB and my R390-A mechanical filters 22 years ago ("Mainsail Mainsail"). I call it "tuning the radio". I require a minimum amount of operating controls and those are thoughtfully all represented by hardware on the K3 front panel. I have to hold 2 buttons down for 2 seconds to switch off AGC and to switch from Watts to ALC on the meter. Everything else defaults exactly how I like it. Those giant Japanese radios remind me of Sansui stereos during Vietnam.

Dave,

Today you have a Federalized "US" National Guard mostly serving National Interests; and NOT the Core Interests of Free and Indepedent States and Their Peoples.

That's NOT the same as a Free and Independent 'State' Regulated Militia : The Citizen's "Home-Guard"

WRT Amendment II to the US Constitution :
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Second_Amendment_to_the_United_States_Co...
A Well Regulated Militia, being necessary to the Security of a Free State, {The States}
[The RIGHT of "The People" to Keep and Bear Arms,] Shall Not Be Infringed.
* What Is A "Militia" In The United States ?
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Militia_%28United_States%29
* The Right To Keep And Bear Arms
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Right_to_keep_and_bear_arms

We-The-People -ask-
"The Individual States" Defense Forces {Militias} of the United States ? Where Are They ?

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/ac1a20d916c56f55
An Independent State Regulated Militia : OF The People of the State
BY The People of the State
FOR The People of the State Composed of {Made-Up From} Each and Every County in a State with a Sheriff's Posse {Core} County Militia Unit of the People of the County.

That would be the class clown. The bully is one who senses weakness and pounces in a vain attempt to make himself feel better by making someone else look more pathetic than he is.

No it's not the same (well it is now because all the state national guard equipment got sent to Irakistan to guard the Amoco pipelines.

For a while the founders thought having a heavily armed populace would guard against misbehavior by the Guvmint, but they all walked that back by the 1820s when they realized how silly that idea was once the country got clicking. The Civil War put the final nails in the idea.

In my personal case, they will trigger alarms long before the door and Frankly, I have gotten so used to the gun, the smallest 9mm made, http://www.rohrbaughfirearms.com/ , that yes, it is always in a shoulder holster, or in my pocket.

When I sleep, there is a larger one, .45 cal., under my pillow ...

just here to make sure the criminal takes the largest gamble.

You bet I have noticed that and when a bully uses the word Troll you can't even get the bully to post the definition of the word Troll.

There was a poster on misc.transport.trucking a while back that never posted on topic, his name even had the letters TROLL in it and he was only out to cause trouble yet I was the only poster that could call him a Troll. I learned then that there is professional courtesy among Trolls and they will not call another Troll a Troll.

In Internet slang, a troll is someone who posts inflammatory, extraneous, or off-topic messages in an online community, such as an online discussion forum, chat room, or blog, with the primary intent of provoking other users into a desired emotional response[1] or of otherwise disrupting normal on-topic discussion.[2] -- Wikipedia

High school part of learning community funded jointly by Obama and domestic terrorist

Jared Lee Loughner, the suspected gunman in Saturday’s Arizona shooting, attended a high school that is part of a network in which teachers are trained and provided resources by a liberal group founded by Weatherman terrorist Bill Ayers and funded by President Obama.

The group, Small Schools Workshop, has been led by a former top communist activist who is an associate of Ayers.

http://www.discoverthenetworks.org/individualProfile.asp?indid=2169

Obama provided the group with funds in the 1990s, when he worked at an education reform group alongside Ayers.

Loughner attended Mountain View High School, which is part of Arizona’s Marana Unified School District.

Since 2003, Mountain View has been part of what is known as the Smaller Learning Community, a network of schools that have been restructured to create a more personalized learning environment where students often share the same teachers and student members from grade to grade.

Mountain View was part of the Smaller Learning Communities throughout Loughner’s entire attendance there, from 9th grade until he withdrew without graduating before his senior year.

The high school received grants to research the concepts of Smaller Learning Communities and work to implement them.

Ayers himself is considered one of the fathers of the Smaller Learning Communities, often providing lectures to schools on the subject. For example, a 2001 lecture at Lewis & Clark College featured Ayers at a workshop entitled, “A Simple Justice: Building Smaller Learning Communities to Know Our Youth.”

Smaller Learning Communities had its conceptual genesis in 1991, when Ayers founded a group, Small Schools Workshop, which provides training and resources to teach schools on how to implement the Smaller Learning Communities.

Small Schools Workshop (Co-founded by the Marxist/Maoist Michael Klonsky and the former Weather Underground terrorist William Ayers, this project portrays American capitalism as an economic system infested with racism, imperialism, and all manner of social injustice.)

Small Schools Workshop is a recommended agent for how to implement smaller schools curriculum, including at Loughner's alma mater, Mountain View.

Ayers' Small Schools Workshop has the stated goal of providing support for teachers who want to create smaller learning environments. Ayers reportedly recruited a radical activist, Mike Klonsky, to head the Workshop. Klonsky still serves as director.

http://www.keywiki.org/index.php/Mike_Klonsky

The Small Schools Workshop was originally associated with the University of Illinois in Chicago, where Klonsky previously taught in the education department alongside Ayers, who retired from the university last year. The group was headquartered for a time inside the university's department of education building.

In 1995, with Obama as its chairman, the newly-formed Chicago Annenberg Challenge, or CAC, a school reform organization, gave the Workshop a grant of $175,000. The CAC provided another $482,662 to the Workshop over the next few years.

Ayers was on a working group of five that originally founded the Chicago Annenberg Challenge. Correspondence shows Ayers was instrumental in recruiting Obama to serve as the CAC's first chairmain.

Ayers served as co-chairman of the Chicago School Reform Collaborative, one of the two operational arms of the CAC.

Klonsky served with Ayers and Ayers' wife, former Weatherman terrorist Bernardine Dohrn, in the Students for a Democratic Society group (see video in article), a major leftist student organization in the 1960s that later splintered, with Ayers and Dohrn leading a more activist approach with the Weatherman. Klonsky reportedly favored less aggressive tactics, promoting the philosophy that young workers possessed the potential to be a revolutionary force to overthrow capitalism.

In the 1970s, Mike Klonsky became a top communist activist and leader of the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party.

http://www.discoverthenetworks.org/individualProfile.asp?indid=2436
http://www.keywiki.org/index.php/Mike_Klonsky

He reportedly identified as a Maoist, and traveled in 1977 to Beijing, where he held friendly meetings with the Chinese leadership.

In a book, “Revolution in the Air,” author Max Elbaum, himself a former Maoist activist, recounts that in Beijing, Klonsky toasted the Chinese Stalinist leadership who, in turn, hailed the formation of his Communist Party group as “reflecting the aspirations of the proletariat and working people,” effectively recognizing Klonsky’s organization as the all-but-official U.S. Maoist party.

Err, `National socialism' _is_ a viable domestic policy. Depending on whose implementing it and what meta-values they're reflecting, it could even be an acceptable, or even desirable one.
A good sacrifice to make sure the sun came back every morning worked for yonks.

ObHint: Maybe `viable' doesn't mean what you think it does.

Although the congresswoman did voice support for the amendments, much more important was Judge John Roll. Roll was a man who supported the Constitution from his bench. He proved himself to be a Patriot and a Great American.

He will be sorely missed. I wonder if the gunman didn't realize the judge was just as important as the congresswoman in the attack on America.

Someone should have been there and ended the gunmans spree before this much damage was done. Too bad someone with a concealed license to carry didn't remove him from the gene pool and we will now be stuck with his costs to the system ...

The pirate (I assume) number station was on 6925 USB - heard from approx. 0300 UTC - 0305 UTC with female announcer and 5 digit English number groups. At the end she said "message complete" 3 times and a couple things I could not make out then finished with what I think was a Windows operating system chime, then off the air. Moderate strength signal with some fading.

Most likely not 'letters', but rather 'cut numbers' in which a letter is substituted for a number. Faster that way.

North American AM mode amateur stations -- some of them with impressive audio, and homebrew or extensively modified commercial and broadcast gear -- can be found all over 160 meters, 3705 to 3733 kHz, 3870 to 3890 kHz, 7160 kHz, 7285-7295 kHz, and 29100 to 29300 kHz. They're not there all the time, but with a little patience they will be found. They even have an extensive forum on the Web at

And these hatemongers say "there's no evidence" that this guy was influenced by the toxic culture they have created. He did not live in a vacuum; how could he miss it?

When I go to Austin or Houston, I try not to stop anywhere in Arizona, (once for gas in Quartzite). I bypass Phoenix completely.

There is palpable lunatic hate out there. If you live in a sane place like Los Angeles, with opposing viewpoints fairly represented in the media, and visit a place like Arizona or West Texas, the fear and hate is palatable. If all you listen to in a day is Limbaugh, Hannity, Levin, and Savage, you are psychotic. Either strengthen the gun laws or bring back diversity of opinion on the public airwaves.

Why should on-line purchases be tax-exempt? State sales taxes predate e-commerce.

Nothing happens in a vacuum. This guy was crazy for years, something put him over the edge last fall. He went from "Alice in Wonderland" to "Full Metal Jacket" in whiplash inducing time. What was the catalyst?

To imply this guy didn't listen to the radio is disingenuous; 'Dwardo says we all listen to the radio. The world is full of crazy people (Reagan stopped treatment for the mentally ill, preferring to treat them with powerful meds which homeless people can't afford) that do not buy Glock 19s with 30 rd clip extenders to take to a town meeting.

Equal Treatment Under the Tax Laws based upon Past Practice and Established Laws.

Past Example and Still True :
Mail Order Within A State Is Taxed
Mail Order Outside A State Is Not-Taxed

Present-Day Applied Example and Still True :

Well, he may -not- have been "crazy for years". By all current accounts, he was more or less "normal" -- good student, good grades, participated in extracurricular activities like band.

Then he got on drugs and everything seemed to go down hill from there.

So maybe drugs is the answer to your "catalyst" question.

http://www.multichannel.com/article/462119-CES_Genachowski_More_TV_Spectrum_Could_Be_Reclaimed_Within_Two_Years.php

AT&T and Verizon deserve airwaves more than you do. This is a power gram. There is tons of unused spectrum. Genachowski must be collared.

"Las Vegas ï¿½ Federal Communications Commission chairman Julius Genachowski reiterated his position that the U.S. faces a "spectrum crunch" and said that if the agency gets the Congressional go-ahead it could reclaim wireless spectrum from TV broadcasters and auction it within two years.

Genachowski, in a speech at the Consumer Electronics Show here Friday, said mobile broadband was critical to fueling the country's economic growth and keeping it globally competitive.

"The consumer electronics industry is going wireless... We need to free up more spectrum," Genachowski said. "Unleashing mobile spectrum is at the top of the FCC's 2011 agenda."

He added, "We could be in a position, if Congress acts, to auction this spectrum in the next year or two and get that on the market... Every day we have a delay we'll have a cost to the U.S. in terms of our global competitiveness."

He called wireless spectrum "the oxygen that sustains our mobile devices," adding, "This invisible infrastructure is the backbone of a growing percentage of our economy and our lives."

I really can't say I am that sorry for them.

If the "victims" had taken the responsibility for their own lives, had a gun in their pocket, and shot the idiot when he produced his and started blasting away, there would have been a LOT FEWER "victims."

If the "victims" want to trust others to protect their lives, they, most likely, will have those lives taken by the first determined person who wants the lives.

If you want to be safe, take responsibility for yourself -- otherwise, don't start crying about being unsafe, or about others being unsafe who are not taking responsibility!

But, if you are that kind of an idiot, "Would you like me to protect your money for you to?" HEHEHEHEHEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!

I have to agree with you, we are (well, not me.)

We are guilty of not taking personal responsibility for our own lives. The people there, at the shooting, were certainly guilty. If only half of they would have had firearms, the shooter would have been dead before having exerted such devastating damage.

This is a wake up call, others are NOT going to be there to protect your life for you. If you want to feel safe, you are going to have to have the tools and skills necessary to protect yourself, your children, your family, your friends and American citizens ...

Be a responsible adult, take what steps are necessary, have the tools at your disposal. Apply for the purchase of a semiauto 9mm or .38 today!

One out of 3 people his age use drugs, I don't think that's it (although if you are psychotic they don't help). I think we are all to blame.
People like this shouldn't fall through the cracks in an allegedly civilized society.

However, the "caustic" media atmosphere is the same as otherwise innocuous pot smoke to the troubled mind; it doesn't help.

Yes. Compared to all of Texas and Arizona (except a couple neighborhoods here and there) Los Angeles is very sane. We know the president was born in Hawaii and is more right wing than Clinton and to call him a socialist should be wishful thinking, not a put-down.

That cubbyhole don't fit. I hit the wrong key on my Blackberry.

If you want instant background checks for semiauto handgun purchases you're going to have to make sure nosy neighbors and friends have a mechanism to flag people like Jared Loughner. This means increased surveillance on a certain level, and a little less liberty. In this case maybe a good thing.

Your system failed to stop a nut case from buying a gun and shooting 20 people. YOU are guilty.

It's not icicles, it's radial ice on the antenna. It builds up from freezing rain, detunes the antenna which makes the antenna warm up and melt the ice enough to dislodge it. The station should install deicers or ice shields or both.

If you want the "freedom" to buy high capacity weapons "on demand" we will need a more intrusive surveillance society to make it more likely nut cases are known to the authorities, lest they get their hands on these weapons. Is your "right" to bear arms more important than my right to open representative government? A 32 hour cooling-down period during which a background check is performed is not unreasonable in light of what happened. Either that or a much longer list of behaviors that disqualify certain people from gun ownership.

What do you think?

Loughner, by the way, is Jewish on his mother's side, so the accusations of "anti-Jewish," though predictable, are ridiculous. Ethnically, he's probably just as Jewish as his main target. Maybe there's a link there.

As for "increased surveillance," no thanks. I'd rather take a chance defending my family from the occasional violently insane person than institute a million-strong army of "watchers" deciding if our every move is "approved" by our masters or not.

With all good wishes,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

You just don't know that. Some "designer" drugs can cause organic changes in the brain; witness "The Addict Who Froze" (or similar name) on PBS several years ago. (a botched batch of a 'designer' drug killed a certain type of brain cell, inducing a severe, incurable case of Parkinson's in the "lucky" drug user).

2) He started taking drugs.

Yeah, but...de-icers or ice shields in Mississippi? Who'd a thunk it?

P.S. Don't forget that this is a TV tower, the antenna per se is only a few percent of the height. I'm sure a lot of the ice came off the tower and guy wires just due to the outside air temp warming up a bit.

Men in churches ask for money. Some do good things with the money and feed/cloth/minister to the poor -- some build enormous, wear nice cloths, donate to political candidates, etc.

So, you are lumping 3 things together: God, good men, and bad men.

It used to be rare, anyway. Weather patterns up north have changed pretty radically over the past 18 months or so. We have reason to believe these icy fingers straight from the North Pole will happen much more frequently due to 3 degrees C warming at the pole.

That's an unnecessary burden on me (the paperwork, not the tax).
California should see to it that the retailer collects the fee at time

Fentanyl. That bad batch of Fentanyl led to some very important

Hippie drugs don't do that to people. How do you know when young Jared

You haven't lived until you've been under a VHF/UHF Tall Tower in an ice storm. You can watch the VSWR meter jump lower as a chunk lets go, then a few seconds later it crashes on the roof. Great excitement.

Actually, God gave us all rights possible. He did temper that with the Ten Commandments though. But, I don't want to commit adultery, commit murder, etc., so the Ten Commandments are a given with me -- indeed, I consider the Ten Commandments MUST BE FOLLOWED just to be a good neighbor to others!

All these possible rights God gave us with but a single decree ... that we would have free choice ...

Men, even in churches, don't speak for God. He spoke for himself as Jesus and though chosen prophets.

Actually, if you are a business and making money, conducting business on an instate level, some ID might be nice ...

If you are a financial consultant, for profit, an ID might be nice ...

But, if I read the first amendment correctly, and I am pretty sure I do: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

The common person using the net for personal use, exercising their right to free speech, or involved in a religious discussion, or involved in a political discussion, or publishing a e-newspaper/blog/etc., etc. THAT WOULD BE ILLEGAL IF APPLIED!

Now, I am not saying that the government won't attempt more criminally-treasonous and un-Constitutional actions against American citizens ... I am saying that they will need to be held accountable, along with the list of crimes they have already committed ...

Well, that's putting sort of a fine point on it. Who knows what drugs Loughner was taking? I don't know. YOU don't know.

> Hippie drugs don't do that to people.

a) You don't have a clue what drugs Loughner was taking, "hippie" or otherwise.
b) Whatever he was taking, how do you know it wasn't contaminated, adulterated or chemically botched up?

> How do you know when young Jared started taking drugs?

From all the media reporting. He started out high school with good grades, friends, extracurricular activities. So, according to his peers and former friends, it would seem to be in Junior or Senior year of H.S. that he experienced a major (down hill) change in his life style.

It is not surprising that the Zionist ADL is behind the effort to abolish an American citizen's constitutional right of free of speech. Nor is their campaign to terrorize individuals with death threats via their cadre of flunkies, errand boys, useful idiots and mossad operatives. Their terrorist activities within the borders of the USA is so common place it rarely is even mentioned in the media. Small wonder considering they operate in the USA with legal impunity.

Is the ADL spying on you? Find out at http://www.jewwatch.com/jew-organizations-ADL.html

The ADL is "...one of the ugliest, most powerful pressure groups in the U.S...Its primary commitment is to use any technique, however dishonest and disgraceful, in order to defame and silence and destroy anybody who dares to criticize the Holy State ('Israel')."

- I bet she appoints a Republican to finish Rep. Gifford's term.

Do you know actually anything about Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords :
http://www.nndb.com/people/032/000122663/
Her Politics beyond the Label "Democrat" http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Giffords#Political_career
* Member of the Blue Dog Coalition {Moderate/Conservative}
* Member of the 'New' Democrat Coalition
Her Political Positions beyond the Label "Democrat"
* Voted in Favor Embryonic Stem-Cell Research
* Voted in Favor Raising the Minimum Wage
* Favors Renewable Energy Subsidies
* Favors Strategic Renewable Energy Reserve
* Favors Securing the US-Mexico Border
* Supports Gun Rights
+ Giffords Voted Against Pelosi for Democrat Leader in 2011

Oops- J-f-K here is another inconvenient truth : Giffords is Still Alive; and not declared Medically Incapacitated
-so- How's She Going To Replaced ?
-ain't-no-provision-for-'substitute'-us-reps-

Plus I think that AZ Governor Jan Brewer is 'smart' enough to call for a "Special Election" -if- Giffords' Husband does not want the Job.

-obtw- Giffords is of Jewish Ancestry
-but- so apparently is Loughner
http://beforeitsnews.com/story/350/862/Is_Loughner_Jewish.html
-and- It appears that both families at times attended the same Reform Synagogue 'Congregation Chaverim'

- 1) Sharon Angle is from Nevada

BAD Hey You Got That Right :o)
-while- J-f-K's Rhetoric+Vitriol+Hate got in the way of the simple Facts and basic Truth.
-ps- J-f-K you are better than that . . .
even 'if' you are arguing with a putz like me

Sharon Angle born in Oregon and mostly has been a life long Nevadian.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sharon_Angle#Personal_life

- 2) I think Rep. Giffords may well have something
- to say as to whether she will be replaced.

Let's Pray She Does - amen ~ RHF

a) -I- never said she was dead nor did I address her being replaced.

b) But seeing as -you- brought up the subject of replacement, she may or may not have been "officially" declared 'medically incapacitated', but with being in critical condition with a hole in her brain, it should be intuitively obvious she won't be returning to work any time soon.

Before Pearl Harbor there were ~2000 Filipino Sailors in the US Navy . Most of them served as Mess Boys, Stewards, Cabin Boys*, etc... {Pre~1942}
* The Personal Valet of the Ship's CO -or- Admiral
-aka- Naval Officer's Man-Servants

Most US Navy Filipino Enlistees were Restricted to the Steward Ratings; until after the end of WWII ~1947.

=WRT= Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords :
Ain't No Provision for 'Substitute' US Representatives

? What's The Process !

Can She Her Self 'Resign' ?
-not- in her present Medical Condition.

Can Her Husband Be Appointed Her Legal Guardian by the Court -and- Resign For Her ?

Can The US House "Remove Her" For Medical Reasons ? -and- Is That In The US House Rules ?

Until one of those happens : She Remains the Elected Office "Holder" and The People of the Arizona 8th US House District go un-represented for now.

=WRT= Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords :
Ain't No Provision for 'Substitute' US Representatives

IMHO -There Should Be A Provision For The US House To Have A Finding of 'Temporary' Medical Disability Ruling and Elevate The Representative's 'Chief-of-Staff' to the Position of "Substitute-Representative" for 90~180 Days.
Thus Enabling the Citizens of the District to Have an Active Voice {Vote} in the US House.

-again- The Alternative Is To Have The Elected Office 'Occupied' -but- Not "Functioning" For and On Behalf of the Citizens of the District for possibly many months... a year...

Seems like a good Issue to be Studied and Resolved by the Leadership of the US House and it's Members -in-the-near-future- ~ RHF

Really? Then perhaps I had better contact a shrink for consultation ... as it sure seems like that to me.

For example: Over the past decades I have seen republicrats and democans come and go, and replace each other, and change the party of office ... one thing has been consistent through it all ... the plans of the shadow government. Become aware, sit back and watch ... see if you

You are correct, there is much criminal and un-Constitutional which has been allowed to happen. Now is the time for people to accept the responsibility of government, which is theirs, and let the public servants know they are not their to do their puppet masters bidding, nor even their own bidding ...

JS,

The normal Legal Process in just about every US State for someone who can not Think for Themselves {Brain Damage} or can not Care for Themselves {Disabled} is for the Courts to Appoint the Spouse, Children, Sibling, Parent
{A Family Member} as the Guardian of First Choice if possible.

-if-not- Then the Court will Appointed Guardian a/o Conservator to Act-For and On-Behalf-Of the Totally Disabled.

That's What Our Society's Social Service Rules and Regulations Require and Our Laws Mandate.

Readers are begining to think your one of RHF sock puppets.

You may want to move to Texas. You know, then you could be a body guard, or maybe just be close to Alex Jones.

I can agree with RHF on some points, on others I strongly disagree. I am a "Constitutionalist", an independent thinker, in staunch agreement with the forefathers -- their writing, quotes, etc. I believe we have the rights granted in the Constitution. I believe the Constitution is wright, when public servants come to disagreement with the Constitution they have always been wrong and working to divert the peoples power onto their puppet masters ...

I believe Alex Jones MOSTLY has it correct.

And, I KNOW 9/11 was an inside job.

If you want to take me gun, I will give it to you ... but you will take it in pieces, one bullet at a time ...

The bible was written by God, not men. That's why it's in American.

Since super nano thermite/thermate suffers from controlled distribution, I am only aware of the military and building demolition companies being issued permits.

For it to be distributed in the dust of the WTC ... there is only one explanation. You can't make uniformly sized nano particles of the ingredients in your garage. Indeed, I am only aware of the Lawrence Livermore Labs having successfully created and producing it ...

It is as significant as finding traces of burnt gun power on a suspects hands in any CSI lab.

No. In the central valley, you hardly ever feel an earthquake ... and, even if you do, you can BARELY feel it ... people in California view earthquakes like people in the midwest view tornadoes ... it brings in the tourists and helps put money in the coffers!

I need a manual for a GE Model 7-2990a! I can't seem to find one anywhere! I also know how to fix the tuning knob problem in this fine radio. If you have or know where to get a manual please let me know! If you have this radio and need it fixed I will do it for cost to me plus shipping both ways

They want to auction your free TV and give it to Apple and Verizon.

"Genachowski said the incentive auction would allow for a mechanism to

From what I have read of this, it won't take anyone's TV away at all.
They're planning on using what amounts to wasted spectrum: unused channels.
In any given market, there are dozens of unused UHF TV channels. Within these empty channels, thousands of voice channels or several broadband channels can be secured, all without interrupting a single terrestrial channel.

You have this total spectrum grab confused with the White Space devices thing from a couple years ago. That never happened, and never will, due to the new FCC plan to take ALL UHF away from TV, and maybe (throw a bone to people without cable or satellite) allow a few public service OTA stations on to LOW BAND VHF which goes about 5 miles in digital.

The FCC is doing this without any meaningful public notification. They know what's best for you dumb Americans; having total control over what you watch.

And yet, Dave, this is the federal government you trust implicitly to run other areas of our lives and regularly call for increasing its power over us.

I agree with your current distrust, but am totally mystified by your repeated outbreaks of authority worship.

Thanks DX Ace, your suggestion worked. I called Universal, they gave me a number, but they said they don' buy products directly from Sony so had no way of ordering parts. I called this number:

800-222-7669 Which is answered in Manilla Phillipines (they didn't want to share that information, but I persisted and finally she admitted it).

I had located the service manual online at a European site, and got the correct part number from the manual:

J203 - Part No: 1-580-681-21 - Jack, DC (Polarity unified type), (DC in 6V)

Part is on back order, maybe 6 weeks or more, would not accept order at this time. Parts wharehouse is in Texas. Cost $4.11 + State Sales Tax + $2.50 shipping.

The problem with these pin connectors is more often than not an issue with the plug. Replacement is simple, once you've located the correct size. Cost will be around a buck and a half, perhaps a bit more. And replacement is not difficult.

I don't know what you're talking about. I don't trust the federal government implicitly; the Supreme Court is totally out of control; the military needs to stop subsidizing oil and providing free security on the high seas. But the enemy far and away more threatening than any enemy we have ever faced is the modern corporation.

Around +6% {~13M} of the US Polpulation are Convicted Felons

They amount to roughly 47% of the Felon Homicides {Murders} which is about Half. Could not find any Percentage for Murders with Guns Only for Convicted Felons.

Conclusion : Convicted Felons are ~8 Times {7.8X}
more likely to commit a Homicide {Murder} :
Then Law Abiding Citizens {Non-Felons}.

So again roughly about Half of the Homicides {Murders} with Guns could be prevented by ensuring Convicted Felons* do not acquire, have and use Guns.
* Provided the Police & DOJ do their Job and Prevent Felons from Legally Buying Guns.
{Background Checks On Legal Gun Purchases}
-so- Create a new Crime adding an additional 5~10~15+
Years for Convicted Felons obtaining Guns Illegally.

Dude. Could it be possible you are part of a government psyops program? And, that you would respond in a coherent manner, if you hadn't been programmed? Is there anything left of the person you once were?

Is there anyway you can come to the realization of what has occurred to you? Is there anyone which can help you? Are there periods where you are cognizant and can see what is happening?

How can we best help you?

- Hello ! - Did Anyone Do A Background Check ?

- The Sheriff of Pima County, AZ Clarence Dupnik;
- the Tucson Police Dept and College Police are
- All Total and Complete Failures in NOT Preventing

ex-Sheriff Mack on "The Power Hour" with Joyce Riley http://www.SheriffMack.com basically agrees with me that all the Local Police Agencies Failed to Do Their Jobs and Let Jared Loughner Buy a Gun.
http://www.thepowerhour.com/schedule.htm

Plus ex-Sheriff Mack points out that both the Tucson Police and Pima Sheriff's Departments FAILED to have at least One LEO on-site for this Open Public Meeting with a local Congressperson : A Total Failure in Crime

Gas leak at the Mississippi Department of Revenue

The site says East Jackson.I Guarantee you that building is in Clinton,Mississippi, out there on Springridge Road.It is WEST of Jackson.I have been there before, about four or five years ago, it is a great big building.It is about seven or eight miles drive WEST of doggy's couch.
East is East and WEST is WEST and never the twain shall meet.

Looka here, a day or two ago, some people who work over there said they smelled something.They were told there is no leak, go on back to work.

Rest assured, government public servants can NEVER "take away" the Creator given right to keep and bear arms.

However, these public servants, from the president on down, can attempt to usurp the people power, the rightful government of the USA -- American citizens and behave in other criminally treasonous way ...

The actions of the public servants, from the president on down, demand they suffer the death penalty for their treasonous actions against American citizens ... justice has still not been severed here ... but it is only one of many, with the most recent being 9/11 ... and, there are smaller infractions going wanting for justice, and preformed upon us, by our criminally treasonous public servants ...

This covers the relationship between the Constitution and Bill of Rights (let's not forget the Declaration of Independence either) so that it should be clear to all which take the time to review it.

It is amazing anyone beyond high school does not have a firm understanding of: The Constitution, The Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence ... no one should be ignorant of the documents which are the whole basis of their country.

However, it is easy to find those who are writing worthless babbling and attempting argument on only their personal opinions and worthless beliefs ...

To be more specific, the Constitution gives men ALL rights, and defers a few to our representatives and public servants, so we have a safe and sane society.

The Bill of Rights, because many knew certain specific rights would be in danger, regardless of the Constitution, enumerated these rights which were felt to be in danger of being infringed upon ... thereby giving absolute guarantee that government NEVER endangers these rights nor attempts to usurp them from the people.

"When it became clear that the Constitution was going to be ratified despite the efforts of the Anti-Federalists, the men secured an agreement that a Bill of Rights in the form of a list of amendments would be attached to the Constitution and sent out for ratification. James Madison sat down to draft 12 amendments, and after cutting the first two, the Bill of Rights as we know it was ratified."

FROM HERE:
http://www.wisegeek.com/what-is-the-bill-of-rights.htm

Attempting to treat the Bill of Rights as a separate and unrelated or only loosely related to the Constitution is sheer fantasy. And, a tool, frequently, used to attempt to weaken the words, concepts and meaning of the Constitution -- or, simply put, outright obfuscation!

When we let our government public servants get by with the murder of these innocents, why is everyone, now, so surprised they went on to 3000+ on 9/11?

In common usage, when the "Creator" is mentioned, it is commonly interpreted as referring to God.

So are you saying God was talking to the framers of the Constitution and that God said it's your right to own a Glock? What chapter and verse of the Bible says this? What tablet is it chiseled in to?

If you mean "creators (small 'c') of the Constitution", please clearly state so. If you say just 'the Creator' (capital 'C') as you did, I will interpret this as your reference to God or Supreme Being and anxiously await your reference to this supposed God-given right.

Since our Constitution follows Christianity, yes, on some level "God spoke to them" -- most likely, from reading the bible.

Yes, God guarantees me the right to self preservation, to defend my life, even at the cost of taking the life of one who would take or greatly harm mine.

The forefathers were in line with Christian beliefs, and acknowledge the existence of God given and inalienable rights given to men by their Creator.

No need to attempt obfuscation ... it is too plainly and simply stated ...

God guarantees me the right to self preservation, without suffering sin.

The Constitution, by way of my God given, and inalienable rights, guarantees me the right to do this with a gun.

No "Creator" in the Constitution. It's in a rather oddly worded part of the Declaration of Independence where Jefferson appears to become an alien, referring to men as "they" (not "we"), and inventing the word
"unALIENable. Was this a cosmic message from an ancient astronaut?

Well, the Declaration of Independence clearly says:

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

So, Thomas Jefferson got that idea from somewhere.

There are, and always will be, individuals, and groups, who are confused and suffer obfuscation when discussing the documents which are the foundation basis of our government, composed of public servants who serve the actual government -- THE PEOPLE.

The Declaration of Independence, The Constitution and The Bill of Rights, all supporting each other, all dealing with the same subject and must be taken as a whole to realize the true reality of government here in the USA -- America.

Obfuscation, by slicing and dicing this foundation up is the work of morons who wish to undermine and fool ignorant American citizens ... transparent attacks to weaken Patriotism and replace real law with the new world orders plans for a nation of slaves and servants ...

Actually, as Jesus departed this world, it was mentioned that he went to visit his other children (paraphrased.)

Who knows where these others he is speaking of exist? In that respect, I must keep an open mind ... indeed, replace "angel" with "space alien" and you still have a basis for the events described to have occurred ...

They were fairly open minded if not down right skeptical regarding religion. Jefferson was likely an atheist, Washington had little time for church, Franklin (at the time) was completely ambivalent.

The Age of Reason doesn't quite mesh cleanly with dogma.

Yes. I have some Adventist friends who are borderline psychotics. I knew some Branch Davidians, having lived in Bryan at the time of the siege. Children are irreligious. Can't make that sort of commitment until you are old enough to give informed consent.

ARLP002 Propagation de K7RA

ZCZC AP02
QST de W1AW
Propagation Forecast Bulletin 2 ARLP002
From Tad Cook, K7RA
Seattle, WA January 14, 2011
To all radio amateurs

SB PROP ARL ARLP002
ARLP002 Propagation de K7RA

Average daily sunspot numbers declined 12 points to 38 during the past week - when compared to the previous week of December 30 through January 5 - when the average was exactly 50. Average daily solar flux declined by nearly six points to 83.8. The latest forecast shows solar flux at 80 on January 14-15, 78 on January 16-21, and back to 80 on January 22-25, 82 on January 26, 88 on January 27-30, and 89 on January 31. The same forecast has planetary A index for January 14 at 8, January 15 at 7, and January 16-31 at 5.

Geophysical Institute Prague sees unsettled geomagnetic conditions on January 14-15, quiet to unsettled January 16, unsettled January 17-18, quiet to unsettled January 19, and quiet on January 20.

The STEREO mission's coverage of the entire Sun is nearly complete, with continuous images showing more than 99.2% of our nearest star. By Sunday evening in North America, the project will have passed 99.34% coverage. The black band of unseen area (seen at http://stereo.gsfc.nasa.gov/) is now just a tiny sliver, and magnetically active areas over the entire Sun may now be observed live from any place with an internet connection at any time of the day or night.

In last week's Propagation Forecast Bulletin ARLP001 we discussed W1YO's comments on HF propagation, and this prompted a question from Howard Lester, N7SO of Schuylerville, New York. He thought it would be more instructive if we intended to illustrate seasonal variation by using the same sunspot number for the April prediction as for the January prediction. That is true, but since the prediction engine is based on a statistical model that employs the predicted smoothed sunspot number (not the latest actual sunspot number), I thought it would be interesting to use the official smoothed prediction from NOAA, to illustrate how conditions might actually play out. Thus we changed two variables, the date and sunspot number. It is important to keep in mind that the smoothed sunspot number for January is predicted as well, because it uses about a year of data to arrive at the number. We know what the last six months of data is, but the component that makes up the next six months is predicted, and currently unknown. So in order to know the true smoothed sunspot number, you need to go back at least six months.

In last week's bulletin we used the table on page 11 of the document at http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/pdf/prf1844.pdf. In that table, all of the smoothed sunspot numbers from January 2009 through June 2010 are know quantities. Each month after June 2010 uses a declining number of months of known data. July 2010 uses 11 months of known data, and one month (January 2011) of predicted data. August 2010 uses 10 months of known data, and two months (January-February 2011) of predicted data, and so on.

How do past predicted smoothed numbers compare with the ones we now know for sure? The first six months of 2010 have known smoothed sunspot numbers of 9, 11, 12, 14, 16 and 16. If we go back two months, to the first week in November, (http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/2010_WeeklyPDF/prf1835.pdf), the numbers for the same months track closely (9, 11, 12, 14, 16 and 19). Of course, going back two months, the only months the smoothed sunspot number is not known for sure are May and June 2010.

Every time we step back a month, the series diverges a little more from the actual outcome. At http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/2010_WeeklyPDF/prf1831.pdf we see October's projection for those months, and it is 9, 11, 12, 15, 18, and 21.

Go back to http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/2010_WeeklyPDF/prf1827.pdf and it is now 9, 11, 13, 16, 19 and 22 for September.

In August we see 9, 11, 14, 17, 20 and 23 at http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/2010_WeeklyPDF/prf1822.pdf.

In July at http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly/2010_WeeklyPDF/prf1818.pdf we see variation all the way back to January, at 10, 13, 15, 18, 21 and 24. You can see now why forecasts for the increase of this solar cycle keep getting scaled back to track actual outcomes more closely.

W1YO commented this week that Cycle 24 is different. "It's slow to climb and the effects of high SSNs and solar flux are not long lasting. I have been through 5 solar cycles and this one is not normal."

Larry Godek, W0OGH of Gilbert, Arizona commented on 6 meters in the New Year: "January 11 just after midnight GMT, ZL1RS was worked on 6 CW followed by VK3OT then ZL2TPY on SSB followed by VK4MA back on CW. What a surprise opening that was. Hopefully this is leading us into a very good January VHF contest weekend coming up soon. Neither high power nor big antenna systems needed for these QSOs. I only have 100 watts and a 5 element Yagi at 40 ft fed with 1/2 inch hard-line. Signals were very easily copyable without wearing cans."

Jon Jones, N0JK in Lawrence, Kansas (EM28) reported on January 12, "Made my first 6 Meter QSO (and first QSO) of the New Year 2011 today with XE2OR/m.

"Rafael was mobile in the rare grid DL97 and worked at 2330 UTC Jan. 9 on 50.125 MHz via E-skip. He was strong with considerable QSB. Heard him work a few other zeros and N5JEH NM also spotted him. He was using an IC-706MIIG and a whip antenna.

"Noted 2x Es from Costa Rica to Colorado and earlier in the afternoon single hop from ZF to W4."

Sunspot numbers for January 6 through 12 were 28, 52, 52, 50, 35, 26, and 23, with a mean of 38. 10.7 cm flux was 86.8, 86.4, 84.8, 82.7, 83.3, 82.6 and 80 with a mean of 83.8. Estimated planetary A indices were 8, 11, 7, 5, 5, 5 and 6 with a mean of 6.7. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 9, 10, 6, 4, 4, 5 and 6 with a mean of 6.3.

I think you confuse "God and the Church" with popular religions!

God is God, of course ... however, a Church is whenever 3 or more people are gathered in his name ...

I think most all, if not all, had a belief in God ... they just didn't believe in popular religions ...

The Declaration of Independence notes the powers, rights and privileges of citizens ... and, your Creator has endowed you will ALL of them.

The Constitution gives the citizens public servants, generally referred to as "the government," very limited and specific powers -- in order that a rational, sane, fair and just representation of the peoples powers and will can be exercised for a stable society ... people govern, public servants serve to exercise the majority of the peoples' will ...

Interesting observation of yours. Kinda' like noticing that most institutionalized mental patients are atheists ...

Yes. Children do not have the tools or education to make sound decisions. I had no belief in God, until I realize it would be impossible for life to have leaped from mud puddles on its' own; And, was able to study the complexity of the cells "computer code", and the impossibility of such complex instructions to have "just happened!"

To believe that life is the product of Spontaneous Generation is a study in denial, ignorance and delusion ... a leap of faith which fails me.

Do you know what the editors of the New York Times look like? Would you recognize them if you saw them?

We all know what leftie talking heads on television look like, such as Chrissie Mathews, Keith Olberman, Katie Couric, et al. But how about Markos Moulitsas of the Daily Kos website, the bloggers of the Democratic Underground, or the writers of the New York Daily News?

Now we know what they all look like. Even the talking heads, now we know what they really look like. From this moment on, this is the face they all have, the face that will appear in our mind's eye picture of them whenever we read what they write or hear what they say. Well, since I pointed out, my mind cannot make the leap of faith necessary to believe complex lifeforms can leap forth from mud puddles complete with complex DNA/RNA coding, the complexity of which rivals the most complex computer code written by mankind ... I see your "evolution" as only an ability of living organisms to adapt to their surroundings -- as given them by there Creator.

So, naturally, all impossibilities removed, I believe there was a superior being who created me, indeed, which created ALL life with complex "codings/instructions" necessary to its'/their survival ...

Children believe in "magic" ... then they grow up and require more compete explanations ... you may find you are in possession of such a mind.

Nah, not sophistry, nothing deceptive; just calling out the OP on his mis-use of the English language...or have him quote chapter and verse to

Oh geez. Is John a product of the public school system?
If he is then look how far we have fallen.
By the time I was in 6th grade I had been taught about the Constitution and The Declaration of Independance and the difference between the two.

And that was in the late 1960s.
And now we see more and more that are not only ignorant as to what the documents mean but apparently believe they are both part of the same document.

If they were "the same document" one would be a "chapter" of the other.

They ARE the same in that they establish the foundation of government in this country, USA. The are THE SAME in the fact they ESTABLISH, PROMOTE, DEFINE, etc. those powers God given to man, and those powers which man, in the USA, will relinquish to government to have a stable, fair and just society ... quit smoke salvia divinorum ... it will become much clearer to you ... fool ... sad, so very, very sad ...

These documents ARE the foundation of America, that foundation is only complete with ALL three ... and fools attempt to attack, or separate them, to attack the rights, responsibilities, privileges and heritage of Americans ...

I only hope the fools you attempt to pull your BS on are relatively few ... but, it scares me fools, such as yourself, are so easily blinded by your insane babblings ...

I have a question for you, John.

why do you insist on cross-posting your off-topic spam to "rec.radio.shortwave"? one would think, you would feel, covering 5 boards was not enough. or is it the draw of the in-resident wacko, rhf, you feel you should spam our radio group as well? i'm sure, your many off-topic post, has cost this group many readers/posters. i for one, come here less and less, as I get tired of the few postings on radio. no need to spam me a reply, as you are now also in my bit-bucket. so, I won't see it. thanks for trying to kill a use-to-be, good board.

Liberty Net: January 8, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/01/liberty-net-january-8-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

AS SUNSPOTS SLOWLY rise, and noise levels remain low, reception on the Liberty Net gets better and better — but, due to increased crowding caused by the BBC's extremely annoying DRM digital hash, some frequency flexibility is required: This time the net began on 3953 kHz and ended up on 3967.

Here's a small sample of the issues discussed this time on amateur radio's longest-running discussion net:

• The State Department will no longer list one's "father and mother" on passports — that's too redolent of normal sexuality, apparently. Instead, it will list "parent 1″ and "parent 2." (26 minutes)

• The Washington regime has decided that millions of your tax dollars are to be spent for free legal representation for illegal immigrants who have "diminished mental capacities." They'll have no difficulties in finding such people, since the average Mestizo invader has an IQ of 89, just 4 points above the Black average. (30 minutes)

• What is the reason for the recent mass deaths of wild birds? (56 minutes)

• Who is James Timothy Turner and why are some people saying he will be the next President of the United States? (1 hour 45 minutes)

• Many Black activists are aware that they have been "played" by Obama and the Establishment string-pullers who control him — and some of these activists are coalescing to oppose Rahm Emanuel's bid for mayor of Chicago. (2 hours 4 minutes)

• Could global warming and the melting of polar ice lead — counter-intuitively — to ever more severe winters in Europe? (2 hours 7 minutes)

• Why did Paul Volcker leave the Obama team? Is it because that he finally figured out that Obama is controlled by the worst vultures on Wall Street, vultures that Volcker wanted to reign in? (2 hours 11 minutes)

• The supposed "secure Internet ID" that the regime is proposing is most likely to be used to suppress dissidents and violate our privacy: When so-called “law enforcement” is given free access to our private data (and these days, they almost always are), we are giving access to the most dangerous criminals of all — those in Washington. (2 hours 40 minutes)

Remember that you can receive the Liberty Net on an open frequency around 3950 kHz every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time (in recent weeks, DRM intereference has caused the area above 3960 to be chosen quite often). You can also listen live on the Internet via N2SAG (who also includes a lively chat room during Net hours) or N2IRJ , or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week.

Remember that the complete net recording is posted at the very top of the right column (under “Liberty Net Audio”) here on http://3950.net — usually on the Sunday immediately following the net, so look for it there if you’d like to listen. These articles and summaries (found in the center column) show up a few days to a week later.

Once again, thanks to W1WCR and all participants for making this extraordinary net possible.

YOU made the statement and it is up to YOU to defend/support/prove abandoning YOUR responsibility to prove YOUR statement.

P.S. Too bad you had to resort to rudeness and name calling...looks like

Don't you pay attention, Roy?

1) The "creators of the the Constitution" is not the same as "THE Creator". There is a (big) distinction between the two. And the OP DID say the "CREATOR".

2) Some here are contending that the "creators of the Constitution" got this input from the Creator via the Bible.

Fine.

What IS your point?

Yes, Billy Boy got his blow job. So what? Are you implying that him getting a blow job is worse than starting two Trillion dollar wars that cost 4000+ American lives and thousands of American mutilations?

Finally, if you think Clinton getting a blow job makes him a "snake in the grass", fair enough, but then what does that make George W. Bush for LYING us into two bogus wars?

What a strange set of values you have.

We're actually running into the space junk as we hurtle 80,000 miles an hour around the Sun. The entire Solar System is moving too, but I forgot how fast.

As you stand on the earth, you are moving at over 1,000 MPH. As, the earth is over 25,000 miles in diameter, it makes one revolution (turn) in 24 Hrs.

When the first cars were developed, there was some discussion at just how fast man could travel without harm ... lol

Since neither the democans nor replicrats carry out the will of the people, I'd like such a weapon which would strike them all down ... it would nice if it would avoid independents and libertarians though.

It stinks if theexporter has an issue and the HD2 goes off, or the TX has an issue,but the chief there is excellent about returning it to air asap. The 2nd (which is the #1 station in the market) has been off for 8 months now, and the 3rd (the #2 in the market) was "malfunctioning" for two months prior to being shut off. One AM's never got turned on, and the other AM's was shut off after about 8 months, and hasn't been on since. That kind of stuff is bad for the advancement of this technology. Another market, which shall remain nameless, one of the stations there shut off the HD transmitters to "save money". It's been off for close to two years now, as a "cost cutting" measure. "They’re turning off HD in Washington, DC"

"Well, this time it’s not an anomaly or a digital exciter glitch – at least not that we can see. For weeks now the Washington, DC market has been turning off its HD Radio signals en masse. There is no longer any station in the market on AM broadcasting in HD. ESPN Deportes Radio/Red Zebra’s 730 WXTR-AM long ago shut off the signal. But now that list includes 630 WMAL (Citadel); 570 WTNT (Clear Channel); Red Zebra’s 980 ESPN Radio; and 1500 WFED-AM (Bonneville). The FM list now includes 106.7 WJFK-FM (CBS Radio); 102.3 WWMJ-FM (Radio One); 104.1
WPRS-FM (Radio One) and 107.7 WWWT-FM (Bonneville)."

Thomas Jefferson got the Words and Idea from a Chinese Fortune Cookie with a piece of paper {Fortune} inside.

On that piece of paper {Fortune} : Written in Chinese was the Words :
We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

Strangely . . . Thomas Jefferson wrote the Words down in English . . .

Even Stranger -because- There is NO Record of Thomas Jefferson being able to read/speak Chinese.

Joe they are not really bullies, but they are cowards. Steve Kramer offered on many occasions to meet several of these gutless wonders face to face but on each occasion they piked out. They DO like to play tough guys on their keyboards though. Would you also believe they even wet their pants when a local successful business woman, Zahavit from the widely acclaimed Jerusalem Falafel, offered to sort out some differences with Cheesy Bob, aka Robert Johnson face to face. Robert ran home, literally, as he was scared stiff and almost wept like a little boy.

The more this looks like a baseball with stitches the better your shortwave radio works. Sunspots are the result of magnetic fields inside the sun twisting like big rubber bands. When they get contorted enough they break through the surface of the sun. Here's today:

http://sdo.gsfc.nasa.gov/assets/img/latest/latest_1024_0171.jpg

http://ngm.nationalgeographic.com/ngm/0407/feature1/images/zm_zoomin.1.1.jpg

This is a very healthy looking sunspot rotating our way:

Pray to Ron Jacobs for surf and sunspots. Good DX, mofos.

No. They want 512 MHz to 698 MHz for mobile broadband so AT&T and Verizon can put Time Warner and Viacom and Comcast out of business. No UHF TV anymore. This is not the White Spaces thing, which is now obviously moot.

Hell of a thing to be murdering and dieing for. I guess they finally gave up on the unbelievable freedom, justice, truth and beauty bullshit the invasion was originally based on.

Mind you, for some people, a beer is the only reward they need to put a bullet into a kid's head (after raping them, naturally).

From the talk show:

"Tell me, Private Fisk, how do Afghani anuses compare to those you found in Iraq?"

"Well, the kids here eat better than in Iraq, so their stool is usually in the way of a clean penetration...that saddens me because then I have to put a slug in their little brown craniums. I don't imagine their onlooking parents and siblings like it much either. So, to answer your question, the sex WAS better in Iraq. Hell, we could even plan group rapes a week ahead of time..those were the days."

Yes, amateurs have been rolling their own for a long time, most often referred to as "traps" on an amateur antenna. Allows operation over multiple bands when wire lengths are cut and tuned correctly ...

9725 went off at 2006. I'm now listening on 7345.

No. They want 512 MHz to 698 MHz for mobile broadband so AT&T and Verizon can put Time Warner and Viacom and Comcast out of business. No UHF TV anymore. This is not the White Spaces thing, which is now obviously moot.

That leaves 8 channels between 470 and 512. They've been paring down the UHF band for decades now, from the original 72 channels down to 47 and then to 38. Also, that would still leave the 12 channels in the VHF band (7-13 are still widely used). Given the limited range of digital television signals, even if they took everything but the 15 channels in the VHF-hi and UHF bands, that would still be plenty of channels for use in most of the country. Gone are the days of the need for non-adjacent channels in a given market.

BpnJ : Why are you considering an Inline Isolator ?

1st and "Inline Isolator" requires inserting something 'in-the-line' in the Antenna to Radio Feed-in-Line.

2nd the "Inline Isolator" requires two more Connections {Joints} in the Antenna to Radio Feed-in-Line.

If Your Antenna to Radio Feed-in-Line is less that 150 Feet : Then most likely you do not need an "Inline Isolator".

If Your Antenna to Radio Feed-in-Line is on-the-ground or buried-under-the-ground a few inches : Then most likely you do not need an "Inline Isolator".

However : If your Antenna to Radio Feed-in-Line is In-the-Air {Overhead} from Tree to House : Then may be you could use and "Inline Isolator" at the House entry-point with another Grounding Point/Ground Rod.

- That leaves 8 channels between 470 and 512. They've been paring down

(7-13 are

signals,

470-512 is Land Mobile in the top 12 metros I believe. Los Angeles has at least 20 TV stations. Wireless mics are supposed to have 2 channels in each city. 6 times 7 equals 42. 470 plus 42 equals 512. Channel 37, 608-614 is not used in the USA. The reason you don't have adjacencies is because markets overlap. Phoenix protects Tucson, LA protects San Diego, Austin protects San Antonio, etc.

I would say the United States public servants, from the president on

The public servants sending your job to china/india barely registers on

Thanks - I see the Wellbrook diagrams. Believe me, If I had the space, that's how I'd do it. I have a tiny lot with the house plopped right in the center, power lines fore and aft and neighbors by the bushel within a hundred feet. My wire, by necessity, must go over my rooftop. In all other respects, it is built roughly as you see in the "good" diagram.

The isolator is a last resort.

People wait too long, resulting in increased morbidity. Air pollution kills 3,000 Americans several times over every year. We give trillions of dollars in subsidies to hugely profitable oil companies, corn producers, and banks while shifting the tax burden to wage earners; that's pretty damn diabolical.

You will certainly need to locate the noise source and place the antenna as far away as possible and orientate the antenna so the direction favored by the particular antenna is pointed AWAY form the noise source. You will probably want to use a 9:1 balun and use coax for the run past any noise source and to provide isolation from noise sources in the home. A GOOD GROUND on the receiver will serve you well. If possible, would also be good to ground the coax braid at the antenna, or run a wire down to ground as short as possible ...

John, thanks - but my whole neighborhood is a noise source. That's no

BpnJ,

Somewhere around a 300+ Hospital Patients DIE
each and every Day : Due to Medical Malfeasance Due to the Administration of Prescription Drugs for the simple reasons of : [Rx Mix-Ups]
* Wrong Prescription Drug {Oops!}
* Too Much of the Right Prescription Drug {More Ain't Better}
* Too Little of the Right Prescription Drug {Less Is Worse}
* No Prescription Drug at all {None Can Kill}
Call them all what you will : Mix-Ups; Accidents;
Clerical Errors; Mistakes; simple human error; etc...

UNLESS SOMETHING IS DONE ABOUT THAT :
Obama-Care© Will Put More Patients in Hospitals and on-average More Patients will die each and every day.
NOTE : This is NOT a Condemnation of Obama-Care©
-but- It Is a Condemnation of Our Present State of Hospital Medical Care -wrt- The Administration of Prescription Drugs in US Hospitals.

Hospital Related {Caused} Deaths are the # 3

Actually, I know that my outlets/switch boxes are sources of buzzing RF noise. When I bring an AM radio, especially one with a tunable loop on it, toward the switches and outlets, the buzzing becomes more audible. I believe that the house is miswired so that ground and one hot side may be on the same path (this needs to be fixed).

I do have an RF-born noise filter that I run the 115 VAC through. I do not get any serious amount of noise from this source (as far as I can tell) on the radio. The radio I use primarily is an Icom R75 (also an Allied SX-190 and Realistic DX-160). Two external antennas - the random wire with 9:1 match, and a DX-Ultra (essentially an all-band dipole, but pretty worthyless on the tropical bands). The worst noise, by far, is on the lower bands (7 MHz and down). At 15 MHz and above, the noise is typically minimal and reception is quite good. The tropical bands are a mess, with an S-7/S-9 noise level most of the time. I can clean up some of it with my MFJ-1026, but not all.

How often are the poles grounded? I have seen every pole grounded and can result in noise ... indeed, tremendous currents can circulate though

That could be a really atrocious scenario, indeed.

Have you tried using a 12v battery as a power source ? This may clear

Like the T-1000 of the Terminator movies, AT&T is slowly, inexorably, pulling itself back together. This is very nearly complete at this point, due to subsequent deregulation. Of course, at this point they will never be able to achieve the near-monopoly status they had prior to the divestiture.

Precisely . That will infringe the anti-trust laws .

- Actually, I know that my outlets/switch boxes are sources of buzzing
- RF noise. When I bring an AM radio, especially one with a tunable

- loop on it, toward the switches and outlets, the buzzing becomes more
- audible. I believe that the house is miswired so that ground and one
- hot side may be on the same path (this needs to be fixed).

BpnJ -First-
Buy a simple to use AC Outlet/Receptacle Tester http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Receptacle_tester for 3-Wire Outlets : Has 3-Lights to Show Proper & Improper Wiring of each and every Outlet that you Test in the House : Do them One-at-aTime & One Room at a Time : One Room per Day by the End of Two Weeks 14-Days you should be Done.
* AC Outlet/Receptacle Tester
http://www.amazon.com/dp/B002LZTKIA
* AC Outlet/Receptacle Tester
http://www.tripplite.com/en/products/model.cfm?txtModelID=3941
* AC Outlet/Receptacle Tester
http://www.acehardware.com/product/index.jsp?productId=3099774

BpnJ -Second-
Next Question : Do You Have 110/120 Volts AC ?
* How to Test for AC Outlet Voltage http://www.ehow.com/how_2072916_test-ac-voltage.html
* How To Test AC Outlet Voltage http://www.acmehowto.com/howto/homemaintenance/electrical/outletvoltage.php * 120 Volts? Usually but not always...
http://www.rocketroberts.com/techart/power.htm

-TIP- The Outlet/Receptacle could be Wired Right -but- You could have Bad Wiring to the Outlet and a Voltage Drop down to 85~105 Volts Another way of doing this is with a Power Strip http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Power_strip
* 6-Outlet Power Strip with 4 Foot Cord
http://www.amazon.com/dp/B00006L4F1 Plug two (2) 100 Watt Incandescent Light Bulbs in to it using two (2) of these Plug-In Light Socket Outlet Adapters
http://www.amazon.com/dp/B000VL4CFC
Now you can Check the Voltage at the Outlet with a 2 Amp Load on it to see if there are any High Resistance Connections causing a Voltage Drop.

BpnJ -Third-
LAST : Once all this is Tested and Fixed : You only have one thing left : Your Service Entrance Ground. For this Test and Repair you should Call a Licensed Electrician to do the Work.

http://www.cdc.gov/nceh/publications/books/housing/figure_cha11.htm
-Safety- If the Electrical Service Entrance Ground is not *R*I*G*H*T* :Then potentially the whole Electrical System of the House is Unsafe.

-Conclusion-
Once this is all done : You will have the Knowledge and the Confidence in Knowing that your House's Electrical System is Wired Correctly and Properly Grounded. -in-a-word-'safe'-:o)-

12 VDC BATTERY POWER [+1 AH] FOR A PORTABLE AM/FM SHORTWAVE RADIO A/O SOLID-STATE HF RECEIVER :
{DIY & Keeping Under $100} --- Buy One (1) Each :

* 12V 1A Sealed Lead Acid Battery Charger Dual Stage

Regular Charge with a Trickle Charge

* @ +1 AH -use- 12V 12AH Sealed Lead Acid {SLA} Battery

NOTE : Anything more/beyond this +2 AH Rating
-and- IMHO you should start looking at 12V Motorcycle Batteries and 12V Car Chargers.
-as-a-lower-cost-alternative-

* DPDT Knife Switch
http://cgi.ebay.com/290523172495

* 6-Outlet Switched Power Strip with 6 Foot Cord

* Plastic Tube or Wooden Box [1 Foot Cube] to put it all in.

This should run your Icom IC-R75 for ~8 Hours :
Charging for 16 Hours with 8 Hour Run Time at +1 AH.
-also- Runs the Grundig Satellit 800M Radio for around the same time.

Wiring the DPDT Knife Switch :
Center 'Blades' is the 12 VDC Battery
One-Side Prongs is AC Charger {Charging}
Other-Side Prongs is Radio "ON*" {In-Use}
* When Knife Blade is 'switched' to Radio "ON"

Turn the AC Power Strip "Off" -or- Un-Plug
the AC Power Strip from the Wall Outlet.

Powering "UP" the Radio [Turning "On" Steps] :
First : AC Switch "Off"
Second : Knife Switch to Radio
Third [LAST] : Turn "On" the Radio/Receiver NOTE : Reverse the Steps to Power "Down" the Radio [Turning "Off"]

Going Way 'Over-Board' :
1 - Put a Three (3) Clamp-On Ferrite Cores* on the AC Power Strip Cord at each end of the Cord and in the Middle too.
2 - Put a Two (2) Clamp-On Ferrite Cores on the DC Power Cord Going to the Radio at each end of the Cord.
3 - Put One Each Clamp-On Ferrite Core on both the Negative(-) and Positive(+) DC Power Cord Lines {Wires} about an Inch or two from the Battery Going to the Radio.

OK, fool. Let me put it simply, so even you might be able to get a grasp on all this.

Even if I were to take my stopwatch and calendar to the demolition experts, the architects, the engineers, the professors, the firefighters, the pilots, etc., etc. They would simply look at me and say "so what." Then they would consider me to be as big a dope as you.

But, if you do have anything, data, evidence, proof? We are waiting, post it here and give yourself some credibility.

> The isolator is a last resort.

Your wire is likely pulling noise out of your house. If you can't move the wire away from the house, then you do have a bit of a challenge. And isolator will only produce a cleaner path for the radiated noise picked up by your antenna to follow to your receiver.

That said, the isolator you're looking at is far more expense than performance for your application. You can do as much with a 9:1 transformer, either prepackaged from Mini-Circuits, or home made by winding around an Amidon toroid worked against an earth ground. Or you could pickup the RF Systems Magnetic Longwire Balun. Also more expense than you need, but it's a good match for what you're trying to achieve, and durable in construction if you're not comfortable growing your own. Anything you want to do, though, will require a good earth ground.

Something like the Wellbrook Loop would also be a good choice. Costly, of course. Solid performance, though. And unobtrusive. Or, if you can get away with it, an RF Systems MTA. Now, I have one, and I use it regularly. In a high noise environment, it's very effective. But, man made noise, radiated from the electronics and other appliances in the home...it's not so effective against that. MTA, like the Wellbrook, or the isolation systems you're considering, will be most effective against high levels of atmospheric noise. Less so with man made noise radiated into your antenna space.

I linked to transformers, which was the original subject (Radiowavs Isolators). Minicircuit transformers are a fraction of the cost of BalUns, UnUns, etc. and all you have to do is build an enclosure out of a damn Sucrets tin.

The cool thing about loops is that they come in all sizes. If you are just receiving the possibilities are virtually endless. I assume you've already tried phased antennas.

Ma Bell is back. Blown into eight pieces by an antitrust court in 1984,
AT&T, like a self-repairing robot, has slowly put itself back together.
Last Friday, the Federal Communications Commission, demanding net neutrality and other conditions, approved AT&T's acquisition of BellSouth. That will make AT&Tï¿½once againï¿½the world's largest technology company. And don't just think big. Think Goliath, with about $110 billion in annual revenue, more than 300,000 employees, and 90 million paying accounts. Google, by way of comparison, brings in about $9 billion a year. Even Microsoft, at $45 billion, is a mere elephant compared to the AT&T mammoth.

LOL, I doubt the sane experts, the ones you don't see on your sacred

And of course, they would laugh at almost everything you kooks put on

Have you tried clamp-on ferrite beads on your AC Mains, right at the meter? They have to be the right ferrite mix for low HF and you may need to use more than 1 per leg. That will get all the dimmer buzz and switchmode whistles from the power lines off your home AC.

I can vouch for these two papers as being very informative without getting too academic:

Hi,

Thanks for the tip. I see the wiring is not exactly the one proposed here : http://www.hard-core-dx.com/nordicdx/antenna/feed/9_1balun.html

On M0UKD's design, the common point is the coax feed line, on HCDX design, it is the ground point.

Which one will provide best results ?

I'm currently using the HCDX design (with ground connected to radio AND a buried piece of wire in my yard) and I'm happy with it, so I might just stick with that :-). But I'm always ready to improve...

A properly constructed balun/unun is a TLT (Transmission Line Transformer.) And, there are in variations in how to wind these ... use a search engine and research for further info ...

There a lots of designs for 9:1 transformers, some work better than others, and in practice none works better than all of the others all of the time.

You don't need a toroid, although they have become popular these days, a ferrite rod will do too. You can buy them on eBay from various Warsaw pact countries, where they were obtained from Russia. The price depends more on the quantity and postage method than anything else.

If you look at the transformer, the simplest method of connecting it is to connect the antenna to the primary and the recevier to the secondary.

9:1 transformers are usually used for random wires with the other end of the antenna being a ground rod. This is good for electricaly safety because the transformer appears as close to zero resistance to static and lightening, making it a long wire connected to ground.

At RF frequencies the transformer is not a direct short and the signals go across it to the receiver.

The other end is connected to the receiver and eventually connected to ground. Many places (e.g. the US) require the coax to be grounded (and that ground bonded to the electrical system ground) where it enters the house.

Whether or not grounding the antenna end of the receiver coax will improve things or not is questionable. In some cases it does, in others it does nothing and in even different cases it makes things worse.

In any case, the best way to mount a transformer in a plastic box is so that the bottom is empty and a small hole is drilled in it to allow moisture to exit. Eventually humidity or even water gets in and the drain will help.

Note that there is no recent research on the use of these devices. There is an article that has been referenced here several times. It was written 14 years ago, and commented that the need for a 9:1 transformer was lessend (and maybe eliminated) by a modern receiver.

The author did mention that it was needed for a "Sky Buddy", but I'm not sure there were many of them in use then or now.

Geoff.

If you want to use coaxial cable with a random wire you need a transformer. The only reason some people notice no difference is because they are listening to absurdly high power transmitters. Impedance matching (or at the least proper bridging) makes a big difference when DXing weak signals like Utes and Tropical Band 50 Watters, Ham Radio, etc.

If all you're trying to hear are =/> 50 thousand Watt stations it's not as critical. Good operating practice dictates you try to follow the rule whenever practicable.

Freedom isn't and never has been "safe". We, as a nation, need to stop being afraid of our own shadows and go back to living life. My generation dealt with the good possibility of total nuclear annihilation but didn't cower in underground bunkers for 50 years (though we DID build them, just in case!)
I'd trade the 1 in a million chance of someone taking me out rather than deal with government intrusion into every part of my life in the name of "security" that is a pipe dream anyway.

Gawd I love a woman with good sense!

Whatever has happened, it has "feminized" the males in the USA.

The sissy-boy is the new model for these cowardly, unmanly, girlish males ... I know you can see it, even if you don't wish to invoke their wrath with comment ... <WINK>

And, American Patriots died with the replacing of these sickly replacements ... a brave man dies a single death, these cowardly

I don't think that your RFI issues are going to be solved by isolators. They will be solved by getting your local power officials to resolve issues with the power lines in your area.

ROFLOL ...

I thought it was bad when I seen those confused by the difference of rf transformers to baluns/unun (TLTs) ... now we have a third term thrown in that must mean "Isolation Transformer."

No wonder there is so much confusion out there ... so now we have rf transformers, baluns, ununs, isolation transformers, transmission line transformers and auto-transformers all being covered by the term "line isolator."

It is going to fun watching two separate people talking about "line isolators" ... ROFLOL

One of the Biggest Factors is the amount of Un-reporting and Under-Reporting that goes On -wrt- this Killer Issue.

~ RHF

- It's a widely known problem.
- Hospitals are dealing with it by putting barcodes
- on patient bracelets; the nurse swipes the bar code
- to verify the patient and medication.
- Medication orders are typed on the computer screen
- instead of hand written scribbles.
- It's been shown to save many lives.

Hope so there has got to be a better way to Prevent All the Mix-Ups Human Errors

and Accurate Picture of this Problem is the amount of Un-reporting and Under-Reporting that goes On {Cover-Ups} -wrt- this Killer Issue.

Child porn is bad ... however, seems like I can remember about a decade back and it was on my computer through unsolicited email and people using an unsecured router of mine -- I have a degree in computer science and I had to work at keep the crap off ... then it was viagra ads, now emails fill my junk mail folder informing me I have won some foreign lotto ...

A tactic if you hate someone is to accuse them of a vile crime and plant the evidence on them ... never seen that with porn but have seen it with drugs planted on a friend ...

You seem awful quick to point a finger at this guy, what did he do to you that you know have a personal vendetta ... a mental condition filled with hate?

I'd just like to know your motivations before I decide what is up ... too often snap decisions have made me have to take back those decisions.

Well, that's possible too. Placing the radio on a 12v battery at least will tell for certain whether the bulk of the noise is coming through the wires or through the antenna.

Listen to this nitwit. You have broken a serious law. I am one witness and there are a bunch of us here. You, when you accessed the pedophile page, made a certain agreement NOT to use the information in the way you have used it here ...

I would say kevin strom needs to copy this and present it to the district attorney and bring charges and a law suit against you ... perhaps we will soon be here discussing your prison record ...

Now you have heard me ...

Not only do I find child pornography disgusting and reprehensible beyond words, I find all pornography demeaning.

If you're interested in the facts of my case, and how I was railroaded for strictly political reasons, you can read my Address to the Court and related articles:

http://www.kevinalfredstrom.com/2009/01/kevin-alfred-strom-address-to-the-court/

http://www.kevinalfredstrom.com/?s=perjurer

I believe that the more intelligent Americans will soon realize, if they haven't already, that the regime in Washington and its "law enforcement" agents are out of control in much the same way that the NKVD was out of control under Stalin. Nothing they say can be believed anymore.

I have no idea why "dxAce," whoever he is, decided to attack me in his bizarre conversation with himself. I don't think I've ever said a single word about him.

With all good wishes,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

Not sure if anyone mentioned this or not...but while you are operating the radio on 12 volts, kill ALL the AC power to your house at the panel.
This will eliminate the possibility that the enemy is you. Or tell you that you -do- have a problem on your property.

If your house is clean, try driving around the neighborhood to search for the noise source, using a portable radio, preferably shortwave, tuned to the frequency where you are experiencing the problem.
Otherwise, a plain old AM transistor radio will work.

Huh? There was an announcement last week that unemployment was slightly DOWN and jobs created were slightly UP.

Not sure what planet you were on that caused you to miss those items -- unless you are so biased and racist that you wouldn't admit to Obama doing anything right.

Just because you are so blindly partisan to the exclusion of facts or are a racist, please don't blame your faults on others.

John,

Actually, I was making complaints about the kiddie porn on his Nazi web sites in this newsgroup in the late '90s. Other nazis opposed his efforts to assume the leadership of the National Alliance based on his "strange" sexual preferences.

But, in all fairness, that fact that Strom is now allowed to even use a computer, much less maintain custody of his children, can be taken as pretty clear proof
he rolled on other Nazis, much the same way that Hal Turner did.

Think about it. It pains me to agree with Lare, but even a blind squirrel finds a nut every once in awhile.

For those of you who don't know what Quartzfest* is, it's a week long RV "Boondocking" (dry) campout combined with all the fixin's of a High Quality HamFest or Convention..but it's FREE!..and again, it's a full WEEK LONG! We get together every year during the last full week in January (which coincides with the Annual Quartzsite RV Show) in the desert just 8 miles south of Quartzsite Arizona (this year from January 23 - 29...STARTS NEXT SUNDAY!!). HAMs come to Quartzfest* from all over North America!

Quartzfest* not a Club, or Organization..no Officers or dues..just a bunch of HAMs getting together..camping, sharing knowledge, learning new skills, enjoying the comradeship of others in your hobby and making life long friendships. Quartzfest's longevity is the result of many HAM volunteers dedicated to both RV'ing and Amateur Radio..

Linda and I have put together a schedule of close to 30 seminars during the week including talks on technical HAM stuff including antennas, Amateur Television, Digital modes, a full day of information on building a "Solar" power system (from basic to advanced..and includes a class on batteries), metal detecting/prospecting...and a lot more. We even have a two and a half day "Get on the Air Workshop" where we'll teach basic soldering of wire/coax..as well as soldering components on circuit boards, calculating lengths of wire for dipoles and how to tune the antennas with analyzers. The workshop is completely "Hands On"!

Before I go, I'd better mention the fact that Ladies, you're not forgotten during the week. Linda has laid on classes on making bracelets with glass beads, Quiling, a Quilt "Show and Tell"..I know I'm forgetting something here.

We have other activities on the schedule including VE (Amateur Radio Licensing Exams) and Commercial Radio Telephone and Telegraph exams, a 40 meter antenna shootout where you can test how your RV HF setup stacks up against others. We have an "Antenna Walkabout" where we're taken on a tour of the Quartzsite area looking at unique RV antenna installations, Geocaching and Finding hidden transmitters. We'll have 2 Pot Luck Dinners and our Annual "HOBO Stew", our "off road trip", two days of "Yard Sale" (tailgate swap meet) and the First Annual "QRZ.com users Fest" hosted by QRZ.com Founder Fred Lloyd AA7BQ.

We can't leave out our morning and night campfires, talks and movies..and best of all, eyeball QSO's with old friends. What, you don't have old friends here? Don't worry, by the end of the week, you'll have more friends than you can count on your fingers and toes!

Wait, that's not all! We'll also be operating Special Event Station N7Q (November Seven Quartzfest*) from January 23rd thru 29th..and we'd love to make radio contact with you. We'll be working all bands intermittently (we're all on solar or battery power..no electrical hook-ups out here in the desert). Of particular note, drop in on the Western Country Cousins Net on 3.970 LSB at 9:00pm Pacific time where N7Q will be in operation..especially Wednesday, January 26...as NET Control.

We have so much going on during the week..too much to mention it all here. For the rest of the schedule, drop by our Quartzfest* website: quartzfest.org and then click on the "2011" button at the top of the page. While visiting the site, take a little time browsing through past years pictures and reports as well as our safety information, driving directions and see how it all started on our "Quartzfest* History" page.

Linda and I are already on site..and awaiting your arrival. Talk-in frequency is 146.55 FM Simplex. When you get to the Quartzfest* area in the "Road Runner" 14 day "Free" BLM area, drive right past the "Camp Host" campsite (DON'T stop and sigh in) and drop by our fifth wheel to sign in. You'll receive your informational welcome packet when you sign in.

If you're a medical professional, i.e., Doctor, Nurse, EMT, etc., and willing..in the event of illness or injury, to help stabilize one of our attendees until emergency services arrives, please let us know when you check in.

For questions, please email Linda and I at: organizer@quartzfest.org

We hope you're able to come out and join us next week...even if it's for just a day.

Quartzsite 2 meter repeater is 145.500 MHz (-) with NO "PL" tone. NET is held on he repeater every evening at 7:00pm.

Mike:

Perhaps I had a strange father, he was a barber, seattle port police cop (TOUGH BREED!), truck driver, construction company owner, etc.

He always taught me to treat others as I would like to be treated. That people can change. And, that whenever meeting a man/woman, I should gauge him/her by what my eyes, ears and heart tells me, and by the way they treat me ... if you had known my father, you would know why I have deep respect for his teachings ... when all others teachings failed me -- his held truth.

So, I hear your words. Perhaps a good phrase, to give a "theme" to all this would be, "Those in glass houses should not throw stones."

Now, don't get me wrong. I am deeply suspicious of all my surroundings. I, most often, carry a concealed weapon. So, I would NOT classify myself as a "bleeding heart liberal;" I would just like to think of myself as attempting to be fair ... and, to be blunt, although I have never seen a prison cell ... I regret a thing or two in my distant past ... I think it is like that for a lot who reach an older age, I have discussed like feelings with others, and of course, my deceased father, when he was still alive.

Today, we just don't have the sense of community and family, to support this as it once was ... so no big deal, the things which happen here are just so much water under a bridge ...

JS

Is it just me or has the SW reception been garbage as of late? Perhaps it's just where I am, but I'm only pulling in the religious people in the US and the cuban stations.

Is this some sun/atmospheric thing? Anyone care to explain something to me?

BHO is NOT a prophet nor an economic wizard,he just happened to be in the focus lately. Why he is being blamed for the 40+ years of governmental failures is beyond my state of comprehension . Herbert Hoover was in a similar predicament during his term and today everybody attributes the Great Deppression as his fault ! That is not exactly fair,as far as I'm concerned . And BHO is simply a young inexperienced senator from Illinois and NOT an economics professor !

It's also the internet, the Gates Foundation paying for BBC news on NPR, and so on. Shortwave is "out" of fashion. Eventually people will stop feeling good about paying high cellular rates for entertainment, listening to Rush Limbaugh and "sports talk" on AM and (the same) "top 40" on every FM station and rediscover, as it were, shortwave.

It's like google. Eventually people will realize that putting 3 or 4 keywords into a search engine is not research and will start going back to libraries. Maybe not the same collection of old books, but newer and different (but the same in principal) libraries.

Meanwhile enjoy the fact that you no longer have to listen to Radio Moscow, Radio Habana Cuba, or the BBC all the time on every band. There always has been a lot more out there, and now it is less hidden by the "big guns".

Geoff.

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the world of SW.

I ain't white, but unlike you, I dislike no one.

Ya don't like it, then shove it up your ass!

You are full of shit.

Please, think before you post.

I'm waiting for Obama to start chucking spears and promising everyone their own hut and and a $12 stipend a year.

You'd be better off asking your relative Boy Barry that question:

Ask the boy whasup. presid...@whitehouse.gov

Extremely heavy emphasis on the BOY.

Damn, the Canucky Niggah didn't have a damn thing to say...

You dumb sand niggers (sorry, I categorize ya all this way) need to understand that you need to get your collective shit together...

Yet later, I hear of some sand niggers who were ALLOWED to board an aircraft and fly to the Netherlands with apparent impunity with a bunch of suspicious stuff.

Actually VA facilities are quite good, but if you Canucky niggahs poke around one might find a lot of things wrong.

Hey, Chink Boy, I got a real Rolex, still ticking after 33 years.. shove it up your slant eyed ass.

Hey, dipshit retarded one...

You keep yer drippin' nose out of our bidness and we just might keep our nose out of yours, capiche?

Have your sister come over here and blow me, boy.

like most Liberal/Democrat/Socialist/Marxists, you're just plain full of shit.

Like I just said, full of shit AND a clown 'tard Marxist/Socialist!

So, beat the rush and get the hell off of RRS, you f00kin retard.

Isn't that exactly how we got stuck with the clown 'tard Obama?

Join your defective brothers/sisters in CanaDuh, you fOOkin 'tard boy!

All you got is a brain stem, you stupid lying 'tard.

Hit the road, ya f00000000kin clown 'tard.

Go find something to tote, clown 'tard.

Stop trying to suck up, 'tard boy.

Hey, clown 'tard, what's your answer, boy?

It was all about you, 'tard boy.

You tell 'em, Marxist 'tard boy!

You're mentally ill, 'tard boy

Really, clown 'tard, how so?

Cry us a river, clown 'tard.

Still waiting, clown 'tard. (twenty+ times in one thread)

You are the 'tard of SoCal.

LMFAO at the clown 'tard!

LMAO at the 'tard.

nothing but a clown 'tard academic.

Obama is a two-bit punk! Heck, he doesn't even care about his relatives who live in squalor. What a guy! He could send his brother $20 which would more than double his income, and, his brother could probably afford a 'double-wide' hut.

You clown 'tard fools have been stupified by your Liberal/Democrat/Marxist/Socialist masters into believing that all fault, and all blame lies at the feet of the 'evil corporations'.

Better naked than Marxist!

How the f00k would you know what I intended or not you worthless piece of Canadian excrement?

Tamp some cotton in it, little girl.

Obviously another clueless Canadian Cunt.

In all fairness, it is I who make you drool on command, dumbass.

I'll bet you use those Vise-Grip's when the gerbils get stuck, right?

You were an automatic dumbass at birth.

However, a pile of crap (such as yourself) is an idiot!

Quit crossposting, ya little queer Canuck.

Nope, I refuse to look in the mirror.

Take a walk, buttfuck.

Sheesh... another f00kin queer!

You are indeed a queer, are you not?

Who will you be bunking with, Bob?

Come lick me homo boy.

What a boring silly game.

Come and arrest me, cockbite.

Yep, the Great Spirit watches over us all!

You are worthless.

Yer mama tossed ya because you're a homo boy, ain't that true?

Did I make any distinction with regard to country, you pedantic little cocksucker?

Fuck YOU, and fuck CanaDuh.

Now asswipe, go take your meds.

Take your meds, retard.

Humanity would be better served if 'Eduardo' were to take his shtick to the fields and began picking lettuce.

And, 'Eddy', may I be so bold as to state that the best part of you obviously dripped down your mothers leg.

If one claims to be "harassed", one blows one's case totally away by urging that individual that one feels "harassed" by to keep talking.

You are a nice retarded boy.

I don't know, though it might be fun to torture him!

Dumbass Canucks, such as yourself, are not deserving of oxygen.

Even more ironic is that you never dispute the fact that you are a little cocksucker!

Tell Wonder Boy to shove it up his community activist ass.

Hey, dumbass, I don't watch the Fox News channel. So, you can shove that dumbass idea right up your gaping Liberal ass!

But hey, I made $14,000 trading oil today.. blow me

Funny how the US Govt. sent me over $50,000 last year

LMFAO as I sit and look at my royalty cheques...

Well, the poor, (I'm one of them) pay no income tax, so therefore the money that keeps things running comes from somewhere.

I prefer genuine ROLEX!

Shove it up your ass, you faux little SOB.

You're full of shit, SOB.

Many things get better after squeezing with ones fingers!

Jerking off not enough for you, boy?

Do you spit or swallow?

Very tasty!

Ya right, suck my dick...

I interact on at least a weekly basis with them, and surprisingly enough, they themselves utter the words 'damn faggots' with those who tend to step out of line.

I don't 'fear' homos, oh faux one!

Well, when one considers that they are at least pleasuring themselves a good amount of the time then at least they can't cause to much trouble.

Come on! How can anyone be straight after free beer and sausages?

Everything is just fine. It's Tulip Time!

And, when I think about it, still brings tears to my eyes.

Is that the gay place to be?

Were you the blower or the blowee?

I know it may be hard, but as you withdraw, it will shrink away..

I have to try to remember that I am powerless over people, places, things, etc.

I anxiously await the love, the adulation, the throngs of people cheering me on and the lovely women casting rose petals before me as I stroll down the street.

I know enough to realize that you most likely have BO.

But, let me say this: if we were to find that something was sent into asses the stomping that you would so rightly deserve, you stupid, fucking, pieces of shit that you are!

I don't watch your youtube crap, cartoon boy!

God 'ol SPAM

Sorry, I'm not a racist like you, Edweenie...

Get the hell out of my country, boy, and head back to where those who appreciate little NAZI bastards such as yourself, you little faux

Stuff a burrito in it, 'Eduardo'.

FUCK CANADUH

In your case that must mean Hispanic Retard department.

Proud to be Miami and a blood relative of Abraham Lincoln

I said it before, and I say it again... Vicente Fox is a stinking piece of Mexican shit.

Keep blowing those beans out your sorry, un-american ass, boy.

Our data indicates that humanity would be better served if you were in the fields picking lettuce.

CanaDuh, and dumbass Canucks, are the entertainment branch of the political world.

Fuckin' dumbass.

You are certainly an SOB, you stupid, MF'ing, liar and poseur!

WRNO FM 99.5 became Rush Radio today.
Rush mentioned it on the show, and also seemed to say that at least for a while they'd be carrying his show for 18 hours a day.

Your birth trait is that you're a MORON, dumbass.

Something for your faux Hispanic cock sucking brain to think about, eh?

Blow it out yer ass, Canuck!

All your talk comes from within the contours of your ass.

Yes, I am witty, and I am wise!

my mommy blew it out her ass II wrote

True, ain't it, little faux Hispanic BOY.. (Heavy emphasis on the BOY!)

Stuff a taco in it, Ramon!

And don't forget SAMBLA, South American Man Boy Love Association.

Mouth wide open, ready to take a load.

Difficult for moi?

After eating the taco's wouldn't they be capable of gassing themelves?

It is then my patriotic friend, you must reach in the closet, place your hands upon the weapon, and blow the cock sucking, bean blower back into Mary's arms....

They are mere asswipes, suitable for flushing.

How many American lives were affected by the slant eyed shit throughout the entire war?

Dumbass Canucks, sure ain't Rolex wearin' respectable folk...!

Or better yet, go get yourself some IBO Cock!

Yeah, after all, you're the Queen of your drug addled world.

And that has exactly what to do with the fact that CanaDuh is a Third World Country?

Canucks need to be castrated.

Shame? Sorry, I'm not a dumbass Canuck. Blow me, boy.

Hey, buttfuck boy... try to pay attention, you little piece of non-listening excrement.

Why are the retards mostly dumbass Canucks?

Run along little Canucky dweeb.

One of my nicknames, starting around 1975 or so has been 'Raoul'

Well, now you know them, and you know me, Karl Mauritania!

Obviously you're just a retard boy who failed as a corporate manager.

Did I say it was, shit for brains?

Because you're a moron, Druggie!

Ace is doing ok!

They don't call me 'Ace' for nothing!

And you, just another retard on the short bus.

All of my DX is better than your DX no matter what I do.

No expertise required, shit head, I just turn the radio on.

Tenacity makes a great DX'er.

Well, I cann assure most everyone here that I've done 100% of my DX'ing without the help from anyone here, and I've had a moderate amount of success.

Then you yourself must be an even dumber clown DXer, 'tard boy!

You claim to be 'Cherokee'... I think you're just 'Wannabee'...

No need to do anything more productive than cash the checks, invest the money, do some DX'ing, and rile up the mentally ill Canucks!

Why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (1)

LOLOLOLOLOLOL... what a damn dumb cunt you are!

Now get your homo ass working on that documentation, boy!

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the world of SW.

I especially like my comments about Canucks. All true of course, and thanks for reminding myself, and others of my literary 'gems'.

I'll have to recycle some of them.

There is no shortwave to rediscover. Here in Region 2, it's nothing but inbred patriots and equally mentally defective religious fundamentalists. No thanks.

Hoping for an HFBC resurgence is like wearing spats to go to the Western Union office to send a wire.

Just because you are unable to adapt and will probably go extinct doesn't mean the rest of us can't enjoy the BBC without the flanging.

Shortwave radio broadcasting is a massive waste of precious electricity, ask HCJB.

Here's a shorter one:

In order for signals to refract (be bent back toward the Earth) the ionosphere needs ions. These are produced when UV radiation interacts with the atmosphere. UV radiation comes from Sunspots.

I'm going to be cautious about addressing the politics, here, because I often find Kevin's politics to be uncomfortable, but he's made a point that's not altogether out of line. And raises legitimate questions about what actually happened, here.

Convicted upon the facts, perhaps. Convicted on the evidence, perhaps. And the truth is that only Kevin really knows what actually happened when the authorities came calling.

But, child porn is one of today's hot button issues. Like heroin in the 50's and cocaine in the 70's, child porn is one of those issues that generally gets a pass when questions are raised about procedure in law enforcement. But, like heroin and cocaine, child porn has been made very easy to convict on. In fact, one need not even know one is in possession to be convicted. Hidden in clauses of bills like DMCA, are items making the reception, even if unsolicited, or unknown, of child porn actionable, criminal offense.

In that light, it's very much like heroin and cocaine: Plant an item, try in the press, convict on the evidence.

Especially easy, when the target is politically hot, as is Kevin Strom.

There are few better ways to destroy someone in this culture than to attach their name to something like child porn. And that, alone, should raise questions when it happens to a politically charged citizen. Who benefits from the diminution of a politically charged citizen, unless it is someone who is politically invested?

Consider also, that we no longer accept the completed sentence as 'payment in full' for an offense in this society. No longer does the convict get a clean start, and an opportunity to rebuild their life after it's been levelled by the legal system. No longer does the past get to be the past. Today, we have websites, we have registries, we have notices that there are convicts living among us. None more reviled than the child molester, or the 'sex offender.' And they are tarred for all time with that epithet.

Even if they are not actually guilty.

You think that doesn't happen?

Just an example, half of the people on death row in Illinois were proven to have been innocent when the evidence could be more coolly and more accurately examined. Let me repeat. Half of the people on death row in Illinois were proven to have been wrongly convicted.

Does anyone think that can't happen in any other state?

Anyone think that can't happen with those accused of sex crime?

ESPECIALLY when there is a politically charged component to someone's life?

Then consider this: Even the judge in Kevin's case said the prosecutors were out of line and dismissed the bulk of actions as flimsy abuses of process. He even acknowledged that Federal agents were prosecuting what was, in fact, a local matter. But, Kevin's politics stabbed at the heart of the Federal Government. If that's not a coincidence, it needs to be proven.

And the single count upon which he was convicted was based on a confession extorted against threats of the horrors of a life in a federal prison as a sex crime convict.

Consider also, that he has sole custody of his children. Something a judge would not permit were he actually believed guilty of a sex crime.

And he has ready access to internet traffic. Something that also would not be permitted, were he believed to be guilty.

These things must be considered when evaluating the conviction against Kevin's rebuttal. But, as a culture, we don't. Because 'child porn' is attached to the matter.

The entire Constitution of the United States was written by men with an inate distrust of the power of government, and the fear of the abuses of men overwhelmed by power. They specifically prohibited the creation of propaganda organs of government to bamboozle the public with false witness, and guaranteed a free press to protect themselves from such an abomination. (Which we have since voluntarily abrogated, apparently.) They were men who'd experienced first hand the horrors of power. And they created a legal system designed to protect the innocent, and protect the falsely accused, by remaining institutionally skeptical, and questioning everything said about someone, putting in place safeguards to protect the human rights of the accused against legal abuses, and allowing for the true recovery of one's life after conviction. So that once sentence is served, the prosecution ends. Unless provoked by a next offense.

We've gotten away from all of that. We try in the press. The government forms alliances with media (Google has an office in the White House, for Christ's sake). We empower one class against the other. (In Florida, a man is automatically removed from his home on charges of spousal abuse, even if the accusation is made anonymously by phone from out of state by someone who's never met either party. Conviction is also nearly automatic. And this is becoming the standard across the States.) We persecute at whim. We prosecute for unpopularity of language. We erase protections from abuse, and presumptions of innocence. We register released offenders. And we persecute in perpetuity.

And we do it without the skepticism that the Founding Fathers specifically codified into the structure of the Nation. The skepticism that ensures the protection of the rights of the accused. The skepticism that ensures the pursuit of the absolute truth.

That, alone, should raise questions that deserve answers about every conviction, every accusation, every interview of a citizen whose politics stand in opposition to the Government.

It is our right to dissent. Guaranteed by the Constitution. It is our right to oppose. It's how we keep the government honest. To limit the power of what Paine termed 'a necessary evil.'

And, yet....

Again, Kevin, alone, knows what the truth really is. But in the case of one so politically charged, we should all be skeptical of what is said about him. It may, indeed be true. But in a case where politics figure so prominently in the irregular pursuit of citizen, we must remain skeptical.

We owe that to everyone so accused. We owe that to the intent of the Founding Fathers. We owe it to The Truth.

Listnin to JT on his Super Talk Mississippi radio talk show, this mornin as purr usual.JT said the British Prime Minister promises to overhaul Britain's health care/medical care system.

Yeah, if that socialized S.ht is sooooooo good, why are they having so many problems with that S.ht!!!???

I can tell y'all what that married Irish woman wayyyyyyy over yonder across the big pond (in Bognor Regis,England) once told me about Britain's socialized health care/medical care.They almost killed her Dad! They told him it was OK for him to travel to Limerick,Ireland to visit relatives and friends.As soon as he got to Limerick, he wound up in Dooradoyle Hospital, his prostate gland was about to burst.The Irish Surgeons told him they couldn't understand why they told him it was OK for him to travel..

There were five murders in New Orleans last night/yesterday.

In court, it would be decided by 12 people if the charges are valid, or not. We can find 12 people right here ... it is a simple question. Did dxace, Steve Lare, use the information off the pedophile page to harass or intimidate?; And, does the law make that a crime?

I would say it is a cut and dry case, right from the evidence existing in this newsgroup, dxace, apparently with help from others, did attempt to intimidate and harass Kevin Strom ... if that is true, it is obviously a crime, the law says that, not me ...

However, Kevin would have to get a consultation with an attorney and find out if it would be worth suing here ... I mean if you sue a bunch of dweebs living in their moms' basement, it wouldn't be worthwhile, would it? I mean, you might just end up with their cheap SW radio and the coathanger they use for an antenna ...

Several international services shut down or reduced their airtime, so the situation has changed over the years, but there is still lots of activity.

When I can't sleep (around 01:00 … 04:00 GMT) I can hear, for example: Radio Havana, RNW (from Bonaire, Spanish service) and RCI (Spanish service) frequently on 49m, Location Netherlands, Europe. Antenna: 5m outdoor wire, urban environment (no high rises). So the sun isn't that bad.

In my location the mayor problem is dealing with interference from switch mode power supplies, lighting, etc.

This morning (from 01:00 GMT, 18 Jan. 11) RNW (Bonaire) had a good signal in the Netherlands.
